The author was diagnosed with epilepsy when she was just 10 years old. At the time, there was very little known about the condition, and she was often treated with disdain and fear. However, she refused to let epilepsy define her life. She went on to graduate from college and earn a master's degree. She also got married and had children.

The author's journey has not been without its challenges. She has had to deal with the stigma of epilepsy, as well as the physical and emotional effects of seizures. However, she has never given up hope. She has always believed that she could live a full and happy life, and she has never stopped fighting for her dreams.

This book is a testament to the power of hope and resilience. It is a story that will inspire anyone who has ever faced adversity. It is a story that will give hope to those who are living with epilepsy.
